Workshop description:

A hands on workshop preparing our educators and future educators for inclusive classrooms. Dr Smith will provide examples and opportunities for inclusion, classroom projects, and discussion for the culturally responsive educator.

This is an opportunity for diversity to come alive and be embedded in course content not singly for those who have diversity components in their curriculum, but for all faculty and future educators to identify areas of opportunity, and discuss and embed diversity in a continuum of the educational curricula.

The opportunity for faculty to collaborate in an open forum of diversity discussions and curricular implementation of diversity directly increases and promotes student learning and preparedness of teachers, in their real-world environments.
